Recorder Playing

Making music together, whether with a few friends in your own home or as part of a larger group under a conductor, is a deeply satisfying experience.

As long as you can read music and sight-read at a basic level, why not try a meeting of the Society of Recorder Players (SRP)? You can come just as a visitor to see how you get on.

The Society of Recorder Players

The SRP is a nationwide organisation for recorder players of all ages that has existed for over sixty years. There are some fifty branches whose aim is to promote the enjoyment of and interest in recorder playing, largely through ensemble playing.

Branches meet regularly at local centres where members play together for pleasure, to explore the vast recorder repertoire, and to extend their technique, thus providing opportunities for the formation of smaller groups to play one-to-a-part in each other's homes.

If there is no branch conveniently near, you may still be a member of the Society, keeping in touch through the Country & Overseas Branch.

Membership of the SRP includes ...

Music-making under expert guidance
The Recorder Magazine supplied quarterly
The Membership List for contacting other members
An annual festival at a different location each year
A biennial competition for potential young professional players (up to the age of 30)
A Teachers' Guide
A fund to assist young recorder students
Workshops

To find out more about membership of the SRP or any of the above why not contact the Secretary or visit our Website (details overleaf)? Or if you are interested in a particular branch, call its secretary for details of dates, times, venue and subscription rates—see enclosed list.
