PAMELA THORBY

Pamela Thorby is one of the world's leading recorder players. Her stylish virtuosity can be heard on numerous recordings of music ranging from the medieval period to the present day. She was the driving force behind the acclaimed Palladian Ensemble from 1991 to 2007.

Pamela's ability to assimilate many styles of music and her skills as an improviser have led to her work with jazz, folk and crossover groups as well as classical musicians.

She returned to teach recorder as a principal instrument at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama within a few years of graduating and is now a GSMD Visiting Professor, teaches York University recorder students and private students at home in York.

RECORDER WORKSHOP

with

PAMELA THORBY

In association with the

Edinburgh Branch of the

SOCIETY OF RECORDER

PLAYERS

FEBRUARY 16TH 2013

To celebrate the 75th anniversary of the Society of Recorder Players, the Edinburgh Branch is delighted to announce the holding of a recorder workshop with Pamela Thorby. The event is open not only to members of the SRP but to all interested recorder players.

There are two ways of participating in this event.

1. Those who would like to participate chiefly as an audience should fill in the form and return it. There will be no charge for this option. Bring a recorder with you as there will also be an opportunity to play/improvise/practise technique!!

2. Recorder players of any age and any level who would like to play a short piece (solo, duet, trio etc. but no longer than 6 minutes) should register their interest using the attached form. There will be a £5.00 fee per application to cover tutoring and administration.
